

THE EVENING STAR.

With Sunday Morning Edition.

WASHINGTON, MONDAY, April 28, 1913

THEODORE W. NOYES, Editor

The Evening Star Newspaper Company.

Business Office, 11th St. and Pennsylvania Avenue, N. W. New York Office, Tribune Building, Chicago Office, First National Bank Building, London Office, 3 Regent St., London, England.

The Evening Star, with the Sunday morning edition, is delivered by carriers within the city at 45 cents per month; daily only, 25 cents per month; Sunday only, 20 cents per month. Orders may be sent by mail or telephone. Main 240. Collection is made by carrier at the end of each month.

Payable in advance by mail, postage prepaid. Daily, Sunday included, one month, 60 cents; three months, $1.65; six months, $3.00; one year, $5.40. Sunday Star, $1 year, $2.40 year.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Washington, D. C.

In order to avoid delays on account of personal absence, letters to THE STAR should not be addressed to any individual connected with the office, but simply to THE STAR, or to the Editor or Business Department, according to the nature of the communication.

The Republican Party.

Let the republican leaders meditate on the old recipe for success. First catch the hare. Never mind now about nominations for 1916. First unite the party. Make nominations worth while. As matters stand at present they are not worth a haire. The party is divided, and will be helpless while that condition remains. In Massachusetts the other day the ticket of Hadley and Butler was proposed. The two men are excellent in equipment for public business and in personal character. They would serve well in office. As a matter of fact, Gov. Hadley might have been nominated at Chicago last year if Theodore Roosevelt had consented; and had he been the candidate would have stood a chance of election.

But Mr. Roosevelt would not consent. The so-called progressive movement was in his hands, and he was determined to hold it. The republican nomination must be his, or he would bolt. As he could not secure it, he bolted, and thus threw the election to the democrats.

Gov. Hadley refused to quit his party. Anxious as he was for certain reforms, he preferred to remain where he was and fight the battle out there. And he still favors the reforms he stood for then. It is not now, and will not be in 1916, a question of men, but of measures, so far as the republicans are concerned. If they can agree upon a platform they can find good men to stand on it. Gov. Hadley and Dr. Butler, good as they are, can be matched many times over. There are more than a score of men who profess and call themselves republicans equal to the requirements of national party leadership.

A different situation is presented in the cases of some of those who call themselves progressives. They have not left one party for another, but a party for a man. Republicans for years, they are now Rooseveltians. They favor whatever Mr. Roosevelt favors. They will support him on any sort of platform. All is left to him.

These men are not so numerous as last year's returns seem to suggest. Many former republicans who bolted Mr. Taft, and supported either Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Wilson, have been sobered by the developments, and might be won back by reasonable and reasonable negotiations. They really are republicans still, and stand for the main issues that have long characterized republicanism. The democracy, restored to power by a divided opposition, is entering upon its responsibilities, and they are heavy. If it trips, and the republicans will pull themselves together, an interesting story may be told as early as next year.

Army Efficiency.

Secretary Garrison's view of the question of military efficiency is obviously sound. He sees the necessity of putting the American army in a condition for practical training by occasional assemblies on a division basis to permit the commanding officers to become familiar with the handling of such large bodies of men and to work out the most effective means of managing supplies and equipment. The need of scattering the army in small units all over the country has passed. There are no frontier conditions that call for close range stationing of troops to guard settlers, and in view of facilities for rapid communication it would be not only impracticable or an unwise plan to concentrate the entire military force at some central point in the middle west. An immense amount of money, however, has been expended in the construction and maintenance of army posts and the army is being economically impeded by their continued use, while local sentiment is always adverse to the abandonment of a station of this character. So it is not without easy contemplation that the small garrison system—like when the matter is viewed in the broadest aspect a regimental garrison in a small one—will be supplanted by any larger plan of army administration. Secretary Garrison, however, believes that even with the present garrison establishment as it is, it is possible to hold occasional divisional maneuvers, and his public statement to this effect should attract sufficient attention to bring the matter under discussion. As long as an army is maintained the possibility of use in war is kept in mind, and it is essentially a fighting force held in readiness against an emergency. If it is not kept up to the highest possible pitch of potential efficiency by maneuvers and drills based upon the latest experiences in warfare it represents an economic waste and stands as a false reliance against the time of possible trouble.

If tariff legislation is disposed of by July 1 it will be difficult in some quarters to hold the Fourth down to a safe and sane basis.

While Dr. Friedmann's methods are inspired by the turtle, they are not so slow.

A Socialist on Congress.

Former Representative Berger has been on a lecture tour and telling his audiences some pleasant things about Congress. His experience as a legislator, though brief, was pleasant, and gave him a high opinion of his associates. This he now expresses in clear and cordial terms.

The probability is that Mr. Berger when he took his seat in the House did not consider that he had entered a den of thieves. He had heard the body so characterized, but as a man of education he must have made allowances for the extravagances of political discussion.

But what he found there greatly and agreeably impressed him. Graft was not in the air. Members were not "on the make," but conscientiously discharging their public duties. In a word, he saw honest men in commission serving the government faithfully according to their lights.

Abuse of Congress proceeds in the main from men without knowledge of the subject, or from men who prefer abuse as a weapon of attack. We do not put needless or needless on that place. Albania is greatly embarrassed now, inasmuch as it will be necessary to change the basis of opposition. The Austrian plan has been obviated from the outset, to secure the establishment of Albanian sovereignty in such conditions as to leave the Austrian influence dominant on the western shore of the Adriatic, with possible reversion to the government at Vienna in the next Balkan readjustment. No word has come yet as to the attitude of Bulgaria, Serbia and Greece toward this latest development, yet it is suspected that these three powers may be compelled to leave Montenegro to work out her own salvation. Obviously the end of the Balkan complication is not yet, and Europe may still be thrown into turmoil as a result of the crushing of the Turkish power in Europe.

After looking at some of the garments approved by fashion, Dr. Mary Walker evidently decides that with a few frills and furbelows her customary attire can be made to appear demurely feminine.

There is usually some glimmer of gladness in the result of his congressional service. He may be as ardent a socialist as before, and as desirous of seeing socialist policies put into operation. But after observing the wheels go round, he must have a better idea of what the existing order is, and of what will be necessary to change machinery so carefully constructed, so long in use, and still in such skillful hands. Progress is the law of our governmental being, but revolution is not. We have been progressing since the day we set up in business for ourselves, and shall continue to do so.

Gov. Sulzer and Tammany.

Gov. Sulzer is arrayed in fighting vocabulary. He is the leader of the New York democracy, and insists that the fact be remembered: The man who forgets it is liable to encounter trouble. Gov. Sulzer is a product of old-style politics. Educated for the bar, he preferred politics, and entered that field soon after leaving school. He has been in office continuously for a quarter of a century.

And not only that. He learned the political game as a member of the most practical organization in the country. Tammany has taught him all he knows. He made his debut as a protégé of Richard Croker, and it was Mr. Croker's influence that kept him for many years in the House. It sustained him even after Mr. Croker had retired to private life.

Gov. Sulzer is on the right track, and deserves success. The difficulty is with his antecedents and present environment. "Croky Tammany" he came. To Tammany he still belongs. So how can he succeed without Tammany's support?

Tammany is in opposition. It sees in the governor's scheme for state-wide primaries a blow at its power in state politics, and from upon it. Self-preservation is the first law of Tammany's being. As Tammany controls the legislature, it has but to use its strength and the governor's scheme is done for. Will it do this? Does Mr. Murphy mean business? Will he give to the legislators who take his orders the word to resist?

The situation looks more like war than any that has preceded it. Ever since the legislative session began, Gov. Sulzer and Tammany have appeared to be at loggerheads. Rumors of a fight to a finish have been numerous. The governor has issued proclamations almost daily declaring his party leadership, and Tammany has regularly smiled at them.

But here at last is the issue which should make for war if the belligerents are in dead earnest. Real primaries are very much desired, and if Gov. Sulzer is convinced that his plan will provide them, he may be sure that it is not acceptable to the machine politicians of either party.

More Mexican Trouble Imminent.

News from Mexico continues to indicate the probability of a renewal of hostilities at the capital itself. While the states of Sonora and Chihuahua are in active revolt, a break has occurred between the federal army and the former, withdrawing from Mexico City and intrenching himself outside of the capital with a considerable force of artillery. Huerta's postponement of the elections is cited as a primary cause of this breach between the erstwhile allies, yet a specific cause was not necessary to peek in view of the fact that there was never any substantial basis for co-operation between the two men. It has been for some time believed that Huerta utilized the Diaz rebellion as his own means of supplanting Madero, and Diaz has since the downfall of the former president regarded himself as defrauded of rights won by force of arms. This situation is likely to develop into active hostilities at any time. Reports state that Diaz is now trying to induce Carranza, leader of the insurgents, to force in the northwest, to join with him in a movement against Huerta. Should that be done general civil war will be again precipitated in Mexico and the possibility of American intervention will be seriously increased.

The Washington Saengerbund, prosperous and enthusiastic on its sixty-first anniversary, called attention to the fact that music holds its own in the Capital city in spite of the distractions of politics and base ball.

An acute crisis in the matter of international threat will not come until some European diplomat refuses to serve in Washington until he has inspected the wine card.

President Wilson refers applicants to other people in a way that makes the third person almost as conspicuous as the first person used to the government.

Bret Hart credited the Chinaman with great shrewdness. Present conditions in the orient may develop an Ah Sin capable of operations on a large scale.

The theory that ignorance of the law is no excuse rather weakened by the availability of statutes caused by state legislatures.

Balkan Complications.

A remarkable situation has developed in Albania, where a Turkish officer, who recently surrendered to the Montenegrins, has proclaimed himself king, with an army of 25,000 men at his back, and now defies the powers of Europe who had agreed that the Duke of Montenegro should ascend the throne of the newly created kingdom. It is explained that this maneuver has the support of the Montenegrins, and it is believed that the surrender at Scutari was predicated upon such an understanding. Montenegro's defiance of the powers coupled with Essad Pasha's self-elevation to the Albanian throne constitutes a problem of great difficulty. Should these two forces work in conjunction they can very seriously embarrass the major nations of Europe. Austria demands the dispatching of Montenegro may become impossible if a native Albanian prince takes the field. Essad Pasha's claim to the kingship is based upon lineal descent and is not merely a stroke of insurgent enterprise. So legitimate is it, indeed, that Austria, having recorded a protest against Montenegrin occupation of Albania, is greatly embarrassed now, inasmuch as it will be necessary to change the basis of opposition. The Austrian plan has been obviated from the outset, to secure the establishment of Albanian sovereignty in such conditions as to leave the Austrian influence dominant on the western shore of the Adriatic, with possible reversion to the government at Vienna in the next Balkan readjustment. No word has come yet as to the attitude of Bulgaria, Serbia and Greece toward this latest development, yet it is suspected that these three powers may be compelled to leave Montenegro to work out her own salvation. Obviously the end of the Balkan complication is not yet, and Europe may still be thrown into turmoil as a result of the crushing of the Turkish power in Europe.

After looking at some of the garments approved by fashion, Dr. Mary Walker evidently decides that with a few frills and furbelows her customary attire can be made to appear demurely feminine.

There is usually some glimmer of gladness in the result of his congressional service. He may be as ardent a socialist as before, and as desirous of seeing socialist policies put into operation. But after observing the wheels go round, he must have a better idea of what the existing order is, and of what will be necessary to change machinery so carefully constructed, so long in use, and still in such skillful hands. Progress is the law of our governmental being, but revolution is not. We have been progressing since the day we set up in business for ourselves, and shall continue to do so.

Gov. Sulzer is arrayed in fighting vocabulary. He is the leader of the New York democracy, and insists that the fact be remembered: The man who forgets it is liable to encounter trouble. Gov. Sulzer is a product of old-style politics. Educated for the bar, he preferred politics, and entered that field soon after leaving school. He has been in office continuously for a quarter of a century.

And not only that. He learned the political game as a member of the most practical organization in the country. Tammany has taught him all he knows. He made his debut as a protégé of Richard Croker, and it was Mr. Croker's influence that kept him for many years in the House. It sustained him even after Mr. Croker had retired to private life.

Gov. Sulzer is on the right track, and deserves success. The difficulty is with his antecedents and present environment. "Croky Tammany" he came. To Tammany he still belongs. So how can he succeed without Tammany's support?

Tammany is in opposition. It sees in the governor's scheme for state-wide primaries a blow at its power in state politics, and from upon it. Self-preservation is the first law of Tammany's being. As Tammany controls the legislature, it has but to use its strength and the governor's scheme is done for. Will it do this? Does Mr. Murphy mean business? Will he give to the legislators who take his orders the word to resist?

The situation looks more like war than any that has preceded it. Ever since the legislative session began, Gov. Sulzer and Tammany have appeared to be at loggerheads. Rumors of a fight to a finish have been numerous. The governor has issued proclamations almost daily declaring his party leadership, and Tammany has regularly smiled at them.

But here at last is the issue which should make for war if the belligerents are in dead earnest. Real primaries are very much desired, and if Gov. Sulzer is convinced that his plan will provide them, he may be sure that it is not acceptable to the machine politicians of either party.

News from Mexico continues to indicate the probability of a renewal of hostilities at the capital itself. While the states of Sonora and Chihuahua are in active revolt, a break has occurred between the federal army and the former, withdrawing from Mexico City and intrenching himself outside of the capital with a considerable force of artillery. Huerta's postponement of the elections is cited as a primary cause of this breach between the erstwhile allies, yet a specific cause was not necessary to peek in view of the fact that there was never any substantial basis for co-operation between the two men. It has been for some time believed that Huerta utilized the Diaz rebellion as his own means of supplanting Madero, and Diaz has since the downfall of the former president regarded himself as defrauded of rights won by force of arms. This situation is likely to develop into active hostilities at any time. Reports state that Diaz is now trying to induce Carranza, leader of the insurgents, to force in the northwest, to join with him in a movement against Huerta. Should that be done general civil war will be again precipitated in Mexico and the possibility of American intervention will be seriously increased.

The Washington Saengerbund, prosperous and enthusiastic on its sixty-first anniversary, called attention to the fact that music holds its own in the Capital city in spite of the distractions of politics and base ball.

An acute crisis in the matter of international threat will not come until some European diplomat refuses to serve in Washington until he has inspected the wine card.

President Wilson refers applicants to other people in a way that makes the third person almost as conspicuous as the first person used to the government.

Bret Hart credited the Chinaman with great shrewdness. Present conditions in the orient may develop an Ah Sin capable of operations on a large scale.

The theory that ignorance of the law is no excuse rather weakened by the availability of statutes caused by state legislatures.

Balkan Complications. A remarkable situation has developed in Albania, where a Turkish officer, who recently surrendered to the Montenegrins, has proclaimed himself king, with an army of 25,000 men at his back, and now defies the powers of Europe who had agreed that the Duke of Montenegro should ascend the throne of the newly created kingdom. It is explained that this maneuver has the support of the Montenegrins, and it is believed that the surrender at Scutari was predicated upon such an understanding. Montenegro's defiance of the powers coupled with Essad Pasha's self-elevation to the Albanian throne constitutes a problem of great difficulty. Should these two forces work in conjunction they can very seriously embarrass the major nations of Europe. Austria demands the dispatching of Montenegro may become impossible if a native Albanian prince takes the field. Essad Pasha's claim to the kingship is based upon lineal descent and is not merely a stroke of insurgent enterprise. So legitimate is it, indeed, that Austria, having recorded a protest against Montenegrin occupation of Albania, is greatly embarrassed now, inasmuch as it will be necessary to change the basis of opposition. The Austrian plan has been obviated from the outset, to secure the establishment of Albanian sovereignty in such conditions as to leave the Austrian influence dominant on the western shore of the Adriatic, with possible reversion to the government at Vienna in the next Balkan readjustment. No word has come yet as to the attitude of Bulgaria, Serbia and Greece toward this latest development, yet it is suspected that these three powers may be compelled to leave Montenegro to work out her own salvation. Obviously the end of the Balkan complication is not yet, and Europe may still be thrown into turmoil as a result of the crushing of the Turkish power in Europe.

After looking at some of the garments approved by fashion, Dr. Mary Walker evidently decides that with a few frills and furbelows her customary attire can be made to appear demurely feminine.

There is usually some glimmer of gladness in the result of his congressional service. He may be as ardent a socialist as before, and as desirous of seeing socialist policies put into operation. But after observing the wheels go round, he must have a better idea of what the existing order is, and of what will be necessary to change machinery so carefully constructed, so long in use, and still in such skillful hands. Progress is the law of our governmental being, but revolution is not. We have been progressing since the day we set up in business for ourselves, and shall continue to do so.

Gov. Sulzer is arrayed in fighting vocabulary. He is the leader of the New York democracy, and insists that the fact be remembered: The man who forgets it is liable to encounter trouble. Gov. Sulzer is a product of old-style politics. Educated for the bar, he preferred politics, and entered that field soon after leaving school. He has been in office continuously for a quarter of a century.

And not only that. He learned the political game as a member of the most practical organization in the country. Tammany has taught him all he knows. He made his debut as a protégé of Richard Croker, and it was Mr. Croker's influence that kept him for many years in the House. It sustained him even after Mr. Croker had retired to private life.

Gov. Sulzer is on the right track, and deserves success. The difficulty is with his antecedents and present environment. "Croky Tammany" he came. To Tammany he still belongs. So how can he succeed without Tammany's support?

Tammany is in opposition. It sees in the governor's scheme for state-wide primaries a blow at its power in state politics, and from upon it. Self-preservation is the first law of Tammany's being. As Tammany controls the legislature, it has but to use its strength and the governor's scheme is done for. Will it do this? Does Mr. Murphy mean business? Will he give to the legislators who take his orders the word to resist?

The situation looks more like war than any that has preceded it. Ever since the legislative session began, Gov. Sulzer and Tammany have appeared to be at loggerheads. Rumors of a fight to a finish have been numerous. The governor has issued proclamations almost daily declaring his party leadership, and Tammany has regularly smiled at them.

But here at last is the issue which should make for war if the belligerents are in dead earnest. Real primaries are very much desired, and if Gov. Sulzer is convinced that his plan will provide them, he may be sure that it is not acceptable to the machine politicians of either party.

News from Mexico continues to indicate the probability of a renewal of hostilities at the capital itself. While the states of Sonora and Chihuahua are in active revolt, a break has occurred between the federal army and the former, withdrawing from Mexico City and intrenching himself outside of the capital with a considerable force of artillery. Huerta's postponement of the elections is cited as a primary cause of this breach between the erstwhile allies, yet a specific cause was not necessary to peek in view of the fact that there was never any substantial basis for co-operation between the two men. It has been for some time believed that Huerta utilized the Diaz rebellion as his own means of supplanting Madero, and Diaz has since the downfall of the former president regarded himself as defrauded of rights won by force of arms. This situation is likely to develop into active hostilities at any time. Reports state that Diaz is now trying to induce Carranza, leader of the insurgents, to force in the northwest, to join with him in a movement against Huerta. Should that be done general civil war will be again precipitated in Mexico and the possibility of American intervention will be seriously increased.

The Washington Saengerbund, prosperous and enthusiastic on its sixty-first anniversary, called attention to the fact that music holds its own in the Capital city in spite of the distractions of politics and base ball.

An acute crisis in the matter of international threat will not come until some European diplomat refuses to serve in Washington until he has inspected the wine card.

President Wilson refers applicants to other people in a way that makes the third person almost as conspicuous as the first person used to the government.

Where there's music there's happiness.

Make your home happy with a

VICTOR VICTROLA

And the records of the best singers in the world.

We will be glad to supply your wants. Come in and see us.

THE Robt. C. Rogers Co., 1313 F Street. The Only Store in the City Selling VICTOR GOODS EXCLUSIVELY.

JUST PUBLISHED

DESERT GOLD

By Zane Grey.

"But it is melodrama pure and undefiled," said one reader of "Desert Gold."

"What's melodrama?" he was asked.

"I mean it is a glorified dime novel written with splendid distinction, with charming grace, with red vigor, but still it is a sort of dime novel. There's the same galloping succession of events, the same tense situations—only it is all presented with such delicacy, such literary charm, one almost forgets the plot."

That's the story after all.

HARPER & BROTHERS

Price, $1.30 net. Book Department, Woodward & Lothrop

CUT GLASS.

A complete showing of the finest American Cut Glass which is the best in the world. Every piece is the purest white, and is beautifully cut.

Cut Glass Berry and Salad Bowls. $2.75 to $3.00. Cut Glass Roll Trays. $2.00 to $2.50. Cut Glass Table Pitchers. $3.50 to $4.00. Cut Glass Vases. $2.50 to $3.00. Cut Glass Sandwich and Cake Plates. $4.50 up.

Chas. R. Edmonston, Chas. Glass and Housefurnishings, 1205 Pa. Ave.

Don't Forget

—to apply a little —"DERMATINE"

—when coming in from a motoring trip or turn at tennis or golf. The skin just as well pack up and come home. There will be nothing for them to do hereafter in the Land of the Rising Sun. It is right, therefore, that we should lose the friendship of 30,000,000 long-bearing, friendly but proud and sensitive people, just because a selfish and sinister element of the great state of California has for the moment got in the saddle and proposes to thwart the will of the entire American people to gratify its whimsy of a reckless race prejudice? The question is not primarily political, but moral. It is the golden rule.

W. Thompson Pharmacy, Frank C. Henry, Prop., 723 15th.

YOU MAY NEED GLASSES BADLY

—and not realize it. Headaches, nervousness, etc., are danger signals that often bespeak defects of vision.

EDWIN H. ETZ, Optician, 1003 G St.

CLOSE DAILY AT 6 P. M. S. KANN'SONS & C 8th St. & Pa Ave 'THE BUSY CORNER'

Rousing Sale Go-Carts at 40 to 50% Saving

Jobber Was Forced to Sell His Overstock Because of the Backward Season

You reap the benefit and can now buy well known makes at a price that would be impossible under ordinary conditions—new, fresh goods. 218 only, to sell in three lots. A small deposit reserves any of these Carts for you until wanted.

Three illustrations of go-carts. $32.50 Reed Pullman Sleepers. $15 and $16.50 Pullman Sleepers. $5.00 and $6.00 Collapsible Go-Carts. $22.50, $9.95, $3.45.

Sale Screens for Tuesday. Prices Worth Investigating. THIS EXACT SCREEN DOOR TUESDAY $1.25. If You Can Use These Sizes: 2 ft. 6 in. x 6 ft. 6 in., 2 ft. 10 in. x 6 ft. 10 in., 2 ft. 8 in. x 7 ft., 2 ft. 10 in. x 7 ft., 3 ft. x 7 ft. Varnished; hardwood finish; mortised sides; 4 inches wide. Fixtures are included. 25c HARDWOOD-FINISH WIN-19c. 25c SCREENS. For windows 20 to 22 inches wide, 24 inches high; slide on steel, which operates freely in all kinds of weather. WINDOW SCREENS. The finest screen made; all black Japanese to prevent rusting; use outside or inside the window frame; 24 inches high; extend 24 to 27 inches. SCREEN WIRE—ALL WIDTHS. 1 1/2c. 24 TO 48 IN. Tuesday, 50c FT.

Fine Quality Jap Silks and Fancy Novelty Silks

Good 85c Values at, a Yard, Tomorrow at 59c.

SALE BROCADES, $3.50 Values, $2.25 to $3. SALE TUB SILKS, $1.00 Values, 75c. SALE NOVELTY FOULARDS, 75c Values, 50c. SALE BLACK MESSALINES, $1 Value, at 65c. ALL-SILK RATINES, scarce elsewhere, here tomorrow, a yard, 65c.

100 Rolls—For One Day (Tuesday) Only

22 1/2c a Yard. The Wanted 116-warp and 195-lb. Grades From China. Here is just the sale for which you have been waiting—Fresh, Pliable China Mattings—just off the steamer; secured at a special price concession because of a quantity purchase. Every design is good, and includes such colorings as green, blue, red, tan, natural and white. The 100 rolls will go quickly—hurry if you want any of them. Price by the roll of 40 yards, $8.75 in this one-day sale. Rug Store—Third Floor.

Tuesday's Feature at the Garment Store

$19.75 & $24.75 All-Wool Tailored Suits

Choice at $12.90

Clear saving of $6.85 to $11.85 if you buy now—and a choice of the season's most charming styles. Present stock of spring garments MUST be disposed of at once to make room for the summer weights; that is the reason for the drastic reduction.

Not all sizes in any one style, but every size in the combined lot. Best coats to select from, and such materials as sponge, poplins, serges, whipcords, bedford cords, mixtures and novelties. Be here early tomorrow to be sure of getting the suit you want at the price.

Other good values at $19.90, $25.00 and $35.00. Garment Store—Second Floor.

HAND MADE Princess Lace Neckwear. $1.50 to $2.50 Values. Choice Tomorrow 95c. An importer's sample and surplus lot that he wished to turn into ready money before going abroad. He offered them to us very much under price if we would take the lot. We did, and that is the reason of tomorrow's sale price. Coat or Dress Collars, Collar and Cuff Sets and Elaborate Berthas. All handmade princess lace. Neckwear Store—Street Floor.

Calcutta Cocoa Summer Rugs

At a Low Price Never Before Known

Similar to the "Algerian" or "Austrian" Rugs, But 1/2 the Price

Table with rug prices: 9x12 Ft. $12.98, 7.6x10.6 Feet $9.98, 6x9 Ft. $6.75, 4x7 Ft. $3.48, 3x6 Ft. $2.48.

White and Khaki Canvas Hammocks

Also a Number of Novelty $2 Values in a Big Tuesday Sale at $1.39

Illustration of a hammock. The Canvas Hammocks can be washed; have springs at each end. The novelties are in stripes of green, red and yellow, with valance along both sides; have inclosed spreader and pillow. These are all the make, which assures good quality at a low price.

Like the Rainbow Colors on a Painter's Palette ARE THE GORGEOUS HUES WE DISPLAY

In Heavy Ramie Linens

These two lots are examples of the splendid color assortment we carry. You will not find their equal in all Washington. 56-inch French and Ramie Dress Linens, in light blue, Copenhagen, leather, reseda, lavender, champagne, oyster white, brown, gray, delft blue, pink, sage, helio. Alice blue, copper, old rose, king's blue, navy, seal, "Ne" rose 39c and black. A yard. 45-inch Holland Ramie Linens. In the following color list: Six shades of blue, from light blue to navy blue; oxford, copper, violet, pink, wistaria, petunia, lavender, oyster white, "crab" green, tan, gray, 3 shades; and black. A yard. 50c.

Among 40 Different Styles Surely One That Just Suits YOU in

Voile-Lingerie and Silk Waists

Embroidered Voile Waists. Crepe Voile Waists. Voile Waists trimmed with Bulgarian embroidery. Lingerie Waists in many different styles—Many with frills; low or Dutch neck styles; high-neck styles; three-quarter, short or long sleeves; crocheted, pearl or crystal buttons. Also Tux Silk Waists, striped and plain white, with high or flat lay-down collars. CHOICE TOMORROW. Waist Store—Second Floor.

$2